The Sense of Security

Unless he possesses a sense of complete security a man can neither put forth his best efforts nor fulfil his highest destiny in life.

The sense of security is best achieved by placing his own future beyond the risk of misadventure, and by placing those who would suffer by his death beyond the risk of want.

This state of mental independence can be attained in an ideal way by taking out a Policy of Assurance. We can offer you the choice of a range of contracts which cover practically, every circumstance and contingency in life.

GLEE CLUB TO PRACTICE NEW SONGS

Are to Hold a Concert in March

PRACTICE AT 7

Many New Selections From England

The usual weekly practice will be held to night in the Union at seven o'clock sharp. Time is getting short now before the first appearance on the 22nd of the month, and, as a lot of polishing-work is necessary on the various pieces, everyone is asked to make a special effort and attend the remaining practices before that date.

All the music ordered from England has now arrived and a start on the work for the big concert to be held in March must be made as soon as possible. Those who were present at the practice held last Thursday will agree that the selection was a good one. Once these pieces are learned the Club will have a repertoire which will compare favourably with that of any other Glee Club in existence in Montreal. "Annie Laurie" in its new setting is a delightful asset, while the arrangement of "John Peel" would bring great acknowledgement from the most hardened audience. "Boot and Saddle" is another valuable addition to the Club's collection. "The Viking's Song" backed by the accompaniment of the Student's Orchestra is well worth the effort necessary for its successful performance.

These are merely a few of the Club's acquisitions. Several others, all of a very high standard, have been obtained and will form a very good collection. Add to these the old favourites and the usual stand-by's and the result is a splendid record of what the Club has done in the few months since its revival. There yet remains, however, quite a lot of work to be done before these pieces can be got up to proper concert shape, and the constant attendance and faithful appearance of every member of the Club is necessary in order to accomplish this. The practices start every Monday night at seven o'clock sharp and in no case will last longer than 8.15. In this short period all the necessary work can easily be completed before the time set for the concert, provided that every man comes at the time appointed, ready to begin a sharp hour's practice.

At the practice next Monday night a discussion will take place about the arrangements for the concert. This makes the attendance of each man even more (Continued on Page 2.)

CAFETERIA TO REDUCE ITS PRICES

Efficiency of Management Results in Price Reductions

BETTER SERVICE

Students Should Patronize Own Institution

After a careful consideration of the balance sheet of the past few months, the management of the Cafeteria in conjunction with the Union House Committee have decided to prepare a table d'hôte meal at noon for the sum of forty-five cents. Those who have patronized the Union at the noon in the past will note this announcement with a great deal of pleasure. Nor is the mid-day meal the only one which is reduced. The management has gone over their costs very thoroughly and several commodities are to be reduced in price. As a typical example it may be stated that the luscious grape fruit which has hitherto retailed at fifteen cents will be obtainable at ten cents.

These welcome reductions have been made possible by the efficiency of the management and the unprecedented success which has met their efforts. The tasty meals which they have provided have attracted a large number of epicureans. If the patronage continues to increase there will no doubt be further reductions.

A new pastry cook has been engaged and the quality of food will be finer than it has been in the past.

These improvements have been made in the interest of the student body and it is quite evident that they should give the management the support which their efficiency has merited.

INTERMEDIATE "B" TEAM WINS GAME

Red and White Is Winner of Fast Contest

Saturday night one of the fastest basket ball games of the year was played by the intermediate B. team. Playing all over the floor and shooting well both teams fought the entire game to keep a lead on the score. McGill however came thru and managed to get the necessary basket which gave them the game. Their opponents however were playing on their own floor and were well acquainted with it so that they were able to get going quickly. At the end of the first half the Y. M. H. A. team had had a one point lead on McGill. The game continued both teams maintaining a fast pace until McGill managed to get the lead when the whistle blew.

For McGill James played a fast game scoring on many of the foul shots. Rapp displayed some fast work to the advantage of the Y. M. H. A.

SENIORS WIN GAME FROM M.A.A.A. BLUES

Two Hundred Witness Good Game

SCORE 30—22

Intermediates Win League Meets M.A. Reds Wed.

McGill Seniors pulled another basketball victory Saturday night at the Highlanders Armory by defeating M.A.A.A. Blues 30-22.

In the first half the game was slow, neither team seemed to be exerting itself. McGill seemed able to carry the ball forward at will but consistently failed to score. Craine dropped in a couple pretty field goals and Bourke scored two points on free throws. Brown of the Blues was very sure on free shots, scoring 3 in the first half. Then Brown, Johnson and Phillips each dropped a field goal, giving the Blues the lead, but just before the whistle Hoy made a brilliant dash and scored, and a moment later on a pass from Bourke scored again, leaving the count 10-9 for McGill at half time. In the first half Laishley and Bourke played forward, Hoy centre, and Mendelson and Craine back.

In the second half Manson went on in place of Laishley and Mendelson went forward, Hay still played centre, Livshin and Craine back.

The game was much faster, both teams going at top speed, but McGill steadily piled up the score and at no time was the end in doubt. Mendelson was the big "point-getter" in this half, obtaining three baskets and four free shots. Monson played his usual hard, fast game and was all over the floor at once, so it seemed, but was unable to pile up a large score as there were usually two men on his heels and sometimes on his neck. In spite of that he dropped in four perfect baskets. Hoy made a brilliant dash through the whole team for his only goal of the period but got someone's elbow in the wind and went off for two minutes, being replaced by Bourke.

Brown was again the best player of the Blues on the floor, netting two goals and three free throws. Hartney scored two baskets.

HOCKEY TEAM WILL SOON BE IN ACTION

The Senior Team to Play U.A.A.A.

The McGill Hockey team is to make its first appearance in Canada next week. Although a successful series of games has already been played in the States the team has not as yet met a Canadian team. When on next Wednesday night they play the newly formed U. A. A. A., they will meet an opponent that may be compared with the teams which are to be played later in the season.

McGill will have the advantage in having already played together for some time as a team and already having defeated three teams which stand high in the hockey world in the States. The men have been practising together for some time and are able to put up a fast game excelling in clever team work. U. A. A. A. however is a new club and although they have many of the leading players of the city on their team and have practiced for some time together they will find an opponent which will call for all the speed and ability for which the individual players are ready well known. The U. A. A. A. has many experienced men who have played on various teams through out the country.

The game is to be an exhibition game and will be played at the Arena on next Wednesday evening.

MONTREAL, MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1922.

AT LAST

On the first of January a new Dean took over the leadership of the Faculty of Arts, and if it is permissible to form a fairly correct estimate of his character and purpose from the substance of recent interviews given to the local press he brings along with the record of a distinguished academic career a very definite idea, which he evidently means to impress upon this University and upon the Faculty of Arts in particular. It is by no means a new idea that Dr. Laing brings, but a very old and a very excellent one—one that has been in a perilous state of coma for some time past.

In a newspaper interview of a few days ago Dr. Laing said: "Our system of education is almost in a precarious position. The trend of modern thought is towards utilitarian aims in many fields of human endeavour. It is unfortunate that Utilitarianism should have invaded the academic world. There is too strong a tendency today to throw cultural education into the discard and to concentrate on instruction that will bring immediately apparent results." This statement has a frank and virile sound about it that must ring gratefully upon the ears wearied for so long by the interminable refrain of recent years, that the sole and true aim of higher education is to make the educated man a "success" in the outside world, when "success" is to be translated by the acquisition of a large quantity of dollars and cents.

The new Dean of the Faculty of Arts has swung to the other extreme. He bases his hopes of the revival of the true academic spirit on the study of the classics. Under the present conditions this goal seems just a little too lofty to be attainable, but then Dr. Laing is an idealist, and that is just exactly what the Faculty of Arts needs at the present time to combat the ever-growing materialistic tendencies of the day.

For several years past it has become evident that the Arts Faculty has been allowed to lag a little in the race. Vacancies in departmental headships and other positions on the staff, including the Dean'ship itself, were left vacant. This has now been rectified to some extent and it is to be hoped that the new Dean, inspired with the love of learning for other than purely material ends, may make of the Arts Faculty the leading Faculty of the University in deed as well as in title.

Apart from the effect of his ideals upon the future progress of his own faculty, Dr. Laing is likely to have a considerable influence upon McGill as a whole, for the wealth of a University consists largely in its outstanding personalities, and in their ability to leave their stamp upon the minds of those with whom they may come in contact. In the meantime the new Dean will not lack an ample field for the exercise of his very welcome principles.

UNTRUE LIES

The Boss—"Look here, Murphy, there are some queer stories going around about you lately."
Murphy—"Ahl shure, sir, and do not believe a word av thim. The flies, half of them, told about me by my neighbours, is untrue."

A SMART PRECAUTION

Old Convict—"Look here, I'd rather not go to that tavern."
Old Cellbird—"Why, don't you like the beer?"
Old Convict (with a sorrowful voice)—"Yes, but the last time I was there a fellow took my overcoat and left me his instead."
Old Cellbird—"But you cannot hardly blame the tavern for that."
Old Jailbird (with innocent vocabulary)—"I know, but you see I might meet the other fellow."

A DIFFERENT INSECT

She—"Just fancy the 'Daily McGill' calling me one of fashion's butterflies!"
He—"From the way you go through your clothes, I should think moths would be nearer the mark."

THE COMMANDER

Census Enumerator—"You say you are a worker, madam?"
Madam—"Certainly, a very hard worker, my dear good man."
C.E.—"Yes, but does that mean in the ordinary sense, or in your home? For instance, do you command a salary?"
Madam—"Of course, I do—(shocked with indignancy)—my husband's salary, is not that enough?"

DIVORCE IS THE DOOR OUT

She—"Well, why should not I flirt a little? Flirting is an art today."
He—"Yes, but it is no fun when you are wedded to the art."

MAKING THE MONEY GO

James—"I never knew a woman make money go as far as my wife does."
Henry—"Humph! Mine makes it go so far I never see it again."

ANNUAL BOARD WILL RECEIVE WORKS OF ART

Instructions Concerning Jun. Photographs

FREE ANNUALS

Drawings Must Be Completed by February First

The work on the Annual is being completed at a rapid rate and the board have issued the following statement to the mess.

All those with ability in drawing are invited to submit designs for the title pages mentioned below. For an accepted drawing an annual will be given as usual and the sketches may be handed to the janitors of the various buildings or delivered to the Art Editor at the Architectural Drafting room in the Engineering building to be in his hands not later than February first.

Size of all drawings is 6 3/8 inches wide by 9 7/8 inches in height which will allow the proper reduction. Larger drawings may be made but the sizes must be in the same ratio, thus 8 1/2 x 13 1/8.

Designs are required for Science, Arts, Commerce, Medicine, Law, Dentistry and R. V. C. Juniors. R. V. C. drawing, Athlete Assn.; Theolog. Student Organizations; "Daily" Athletics; Clubs and societies, Contributions, Literary and Dramatic Society, Pharmacy, Sectional Clubs, "Finis" drawings.

There is some slight misapprehension in the minds of Juniors as to the arrangement made with the photographer and it is thought advisable to clear this up if possible.

Two sittings are taken and a finished picture (not a proof) shown, taken from that one of the two negatives which is the better. This picture is retouched and is not a proof, but if desired an unretouched will be shown taken from the other negative. And it should be noted that in a comparison of the two for purposes of selection the fact that one is retouched and the other a plain proof should be taken into consideration.

By giving the work to the present photographer a saving of 75c has been effected, a fact which may well nullify any small inconvenience resulting from the studio being situated at some distance from the college.

The photographer manager wishes to remind those Juniors who have not yet been able to get down to the studio that any further delay will cause a great deal of trouble to the Board and may in aggravated cases result in omission in the annual and delay in publication.

WESTMOUNT DEFEATS JUNIOR TEAM

McGill Team Puts Up Good Fight

SCORE 5-1

The Junior Amateur Hockey Schedule Is Announced

The Junior Hockey Team played their first game in their series on Saturday afternoon at Mount Royal Arena against Westmount. Unfortunately McGill could not seem to get working just right and the game ended with the official score 5-1 in favor of Westmount. The latter team had the advantage in experience having played M. A. A. A. to a draw on Dec. 31st and they showed better combination than McGill. However the Juniors have just started and much more and better news will be heard from them later.

Consiglio was kept fairly busy in the net at the beginning of the game and Westmount drew first blood when a shot from Harrison slipped past him. Westmount were taking long shots at the McGill goal. Shortly after this counter Smith scored for McGill. The Juniors were missing opportunities to shoot through oversteering the puck or being too far ahead to receive a pass. Westmount scored twice more before the end of the period which left them in the lead, 3-1.

They again drew first blood early in the second period. McGill were giving Kerr more work in the net and really had the rubber in the corner of the net but it was not allowed. Just before the gong Westmount scored their fifth goal.

Joslin and Hyman worked well on the defence for McGill and also Smith. For Westmount Harrison, Allan on defence, and Orrock at center showed up well.

Line-up:

McGill	Westmount
Goal	Kerr
Defences	Harrison
Joslin	Hyman
Center	Allan
Gammell	Orrock
Wings
Smith	Creamer
Abbott	Coles
Subs.
Luxton	Binch
Murphy	Foran
Gitty	Bronsetter
Emo

Two other games in the series were played, Loyola defeating St. Gabriel and Wellington beating Victoria 2-1 in a great game. This makes two wins for Wellington and puts them at the head of the league. Loyola and Westmount are tied for second place with one win each.

COMMENDS SOCIAL SERVICE LECTURES

The following letter has been received by Mr. J. Howard T. Falk, Director of Social Service, from E. W. Beatty, President of the C. P. R. and Chancellor of the University. It is indicative of the general interest among prominent men in the community for the course of lectures being given by the Department of Social Service on vital social problems.

Dear Mr. Falk:

I have received your letter of the 16th ultimo enclosing announcement of a course of five lectures to be given during the present month under the auspices of the Department of Social Service of McGill University.

I am quite in accord with the scheme of this course of lectures and very much impressed with its value as a means of disseminating important and almost necessary information in respect of community welfare. There has not been sufficient effort to bring to the attention of the citizens of Montreal and other centres the importance of these social problems with which our people are faced in every large centre.

I sincerely trust that the success of the lectures will more than justify the enterprise of your Department in initiating them.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) E. W. Beatty.

THE STORIES OF THE MONTHS (January)

January was named after Janus, a god with two faces, one looking forward and the other looking backward. In other words, he was a two-faced god, with the ability to go where he was looking and look where he was going. The Romans were very fond of Janus and worshipped him in a temple that was kept open during war but was closed in time of peace. For that reason the position of door-keeper of the temple was sought by many in that burg.

Janus was a god of Beginnings and Ends. In those days every worthwhile Roman began a diary and the workmen in the public quarries felt very much relieved, when a few days later, the entries ended.

In those days, too, prohibition must have been in force, for Janus carried in his left hand a large cellar key made of gold and had the privilege of any citizen's cellar and it was usually on the first day of the year that Janus, literally speaking, consulted all of the best cellars and imbibed of all the home-brews until he went home. New Year's with the excess imbibing's dialect, such as "Wash Matter?" "les (hic) navigate," "Jesh one more, then home, dash good fel," etc., etc.

Anyone who wanted to begin a matter well or to make a good end of something always begged Janus for his assistance. His countenance was like an open book—a de luxe edition—and it certainly was great convenience to see a well-dressed chicken coming and going without looking around. In the Roman army it must have been annoying for a captain to shout "About Face" and to see Janus standing still and yet be obeying the order.

Janus was also considered the gate-keeper of heaven, and the Romans regarded him as the protector of their gates. In other words if their gates were such that they required a wider range than the straight and narrow path, Janus instituted a system of correction.

Of course having two faces also had its inconveniences. For instance, when Janus called on his sweetheart on Saturday night and had to shave in 4 minutes and 17 seconds and 2-5, it required a quick movement to go over two faces, unless he was ambidextrous and could have shaved both faces at the same time. Again, it was useless for the teacher to tell him to stand with his face in the corner when she meted him with punishment.

It was a clever scheme of the Romans to name the first month of the year after Janus, for it is symbolic of looking forward and looking backward. Looking forward to the time when our income tax will be due in March and looking backward at the time it is over-due.

Resolutions are made on the first day of January so that there will be something to break during the year besides the Ten Commandments.

THE HARDEST JOB

"I have come here," said the angry man to the superintendent of the tramway company, "to get justice; justice, I said. Yesterday, as my wife was getting off one of your cars, box-cars, I rather would call them, the conductor stepped on her dress and tore a yard of frilling off the skirt."

The superintendent remained cool. "Well, sir," he said. "I don't know that we are to blame for that. What do you expect us to do? Get her a new dress?"

"No, sir, I do not intend to let you off so easily as that," the other man replied gruffly. He brandished in his right hand a small piece of silk. "What I propose to have you do," he said, "is to match this silk."

GLEE CLUB TO PRACTICE NEW SONGS

desirable than ever. There are many details which have to be arranged and any suggestions will be welcomed by those who will have the executive work to do.

If there is any man who has not yet come to the practices but who is interested in music or singing, it is not too late even now to join the Club. Most of the music for the concert is comparatively new to everybody and so a new member will not find himself very far behind. In any case, once you get in amongst the crowd, things are very easily learned and you will soon be able to sing with the best. It is hoped, therefore, that every member and any others who wish to join the Club, will put in an appearance to-night and continue to do so at every practice in the future.

"Marry me and you shall have everything that money can buy."
"But, how much money a day?"

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Sunday, January, 8th (Lord's Day.)

Awake with a great start this night to find myself all asweet and my limbs all a-tremble as from an ill-dream, and in truth such an evil presentiment I never did have in all my days, for I thought myself in the presence of all the Lord Examinators of these colleges who were come together in a great hall to probe into my small knowledge of the mathematics, and as I stood there in awful fears none other than the Lord Principalle himself up to tell me that I had been found wanting in these things; and to bid me begone from the gates for ever, and when it was I woke up, and thank Heaven it was so, or else I were like to die of very fright. So passed a troubled and most wretched night, and falling asleep a little before dawn awoke to find it almost high noon and my good hostess coming home from mass; so through the unabatement of my slumbers I could not go to church, which I take to be a great shame. All this day in my chamber in great stress of mind in recollection of the night's happenings. For though I am not of peasant blood, nor have I any measure at all of superstition, yet is it always in good policy to remember that Providence works upon men's minds in divers and strange ways, and so I do well to beware and apply myself to the study of these base and troublesome mathematics. Very like also that my dream was naught but the result of an immoderate quantity of a very strong cheese out of Olka that I ate last night, but who is there can probe into our minds when we sleep? This philosophising very subtly at my work, and quite abstaining from ale as a penance for my omissions; but this unusual process cast me into such a melancholic fit that I shall never do so rash a thing again. But another week to the examinations!

MRS. LATHOM'S TEA VERY ENJOYABLE

Some twenty-five McGill Students were the guests of Mrs. Lathom at an informal tea held on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lathom was assisted by Mrs. Evans and Mrs. MacKay and several other ladies, while the presence of Rev. S. Snow, of the Church of the Messiah and several professors of the University also greatly contributed to the success of the afternoon's event.

It was a different appearance from the usual state which the Reading Room of the Hall presented yesterday and the many people present thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess.

The weakly Whisper: Bedtime stories are useless nowadays because the children come in after every one else has retired.

Jongs had unexpectedly come face to face with Green, from whom he often borrowed money. "Er-er, what was the denomination of the bill you loaned me, Green?" he asked.

"Episcopalian, I guess," said Green.

"At any rate it keeps lent very well."

HUNTINGDON HUMBLED BY SECOND TEAM

Intermediates Win League
Game 7 to 1

KENT CAPTAIN

Lynch, McGerrigle, Kent Performed Well for McGill

Displaying a marked superiority over their rivals in every department of the game and wielding an attack which many a senior team would be proud of the intermediate hockey squad skated their way to a clean-cut victory over the Huntingdon team, at the latter's arena on Saturday night, making it two straight wins in the City League series. The score 7 to 1 just about shows the respective strength of the teams. From the moment that "Shorty" Lynch scored his first well earned goal early in the opening period until Frederick sagged the net for McGill's seventh counter, near the close of the final frame the outcome of the contest was never in doubt. The Montreal boys easily out-skated the Township men; McGerrigle in particular showing amazing bursts of speed down the ice. The continued cold weather had put the rink in excellent condition for the game but the surface was the smallest McGill men have yet played on and consequently their speed was not so great an advantage. On a larger rink, their fast skating would probably have enabled them to pile up a still greater score.

Except during the first few minutes of the opening period, the McGill team work was of a high order. Their passing was very accurate, five of the seven goals scored being the result of pretty combination plays. The work of McGerrigle and McNider on the defence is worthy of particular praise. So steady was this pair that in the first two periods the Huntingdon outfit was unable to get anywhere near the Collegians net. In the opening session Moran was called upon to make but three stops which he took care of in handy fashion. The mobility of the opponents to penetrate the McGill defence resulted in long shots from away outside, and as the Huntingdon forwards were not very accurate, the McGill goal was not seriously threatened.

The forward line, Lynch, Kent and Frederick were in excellent form and completely bewildered the opposing wings. Jack Lynch who jumped into the limelight in the recent three game series in Boston, lived up to his reputation. His stickhandling was beautiful, and he was by far the most elusive man on the ice. The Huntingdon team seemed unable to check him and time and again he would evade two and three men and skate down the rink. He started the count by scoring the first two goals, both of which were well earned. Kent who was elected temporary captain before the match celebrated, by playing a very pretty game; he was the most consistent man on the team and in addition tallied twice. Frederick on right wing also played well, doing some very good checking. The wings were supported by a capable string of substitutes: Stephens, McNaughton and Dempsey showing up well. In goal, Moran had very little to do during the first session and the early part of the second but after that he was called upon to make a number of difficult shots and acquitted himself in good style.

Until the final period it looked like a shutout victory for McGill, but after about five minutes of the third session had elapsed, a scramble occurred in front of the McGill goal and Terry poked the rubber in for his team's only counter.

The play by periods follows:

First Period
The ice was in excellent condition and the play started fast. Frederick opened fire by taking a long shot at the Huntingdon goal, but it went wide. The McGill men possessed great speed but for a time seemed unable to get working together. Kent took a try at the goal, and then McNider went down the ice with Frederick, making a pretty pass to the latter, who missed the net by a narrow margin. The McGill defence was very strong and their rivals were unable to threaten. Hampson was sent off for tripping. McGerrigle flashed down the rink and took a good shot, but Partridge made a great stop.

Lynch then took the puck away from a Huntingdon forward, evaded the other two and edging in between the defence men scored a beautiful goal. McGill 1, Huntingdon 0.

Kent took the puck on the face off and shot from near mid ice, it looked like a tally but Partridge made another pretty stop. Lynch and Hampson each incurred two minute penalties. Frederick went down and passed to Kent but Partridge saved what seemed another point. Lynch returned, McGerrigle was sent off for two minutes. Stephen went on for Frederick and took a shot at the goal, but it was stopped, he recovered the puck, however, and skating behind the goal passed out to Lynch who hit the corner of the net for a pretty goal. McGill 2, Huntingdon 0. During this period the play was almost entirely in the Huntingdon territory.

Second Period

Stephen went on for McNider, McNaughton for Frederick. Stephen secured the puck near the boards and shot from outside defence scoring the third point. McGill 3, Huntingdon 0. The play continued up near the home team's net. Lynch did some pretty stick handling, and the passing of the entire team was good. McGerrigle was doing some fine skating but seemed to have the jinx on all his shots at the goal. Stephen combined with Kent on a rush down the ice and the latter scored a perfect goal. McGill 4, Huntingdon 0.

Frederick on for Lynch, Murray was sent off for tripping. Kent also received a penalty. McGerrigle made a speedy excursion down the rink, and passed to Frederick who put one past Partridge; McGill 5, Huntingdon 0. The home team then rallied and shots by Hampson and Dixon came in quick succession but Moran was equal to the task and made two pretty saves. Lynch on for Stephens. Dempsey for McNider. The game was then delayed by reason of the puck being lost in a hole in the boards. "Shorty" Lynch tried hard to creep under and recover it but the space was not quite large enough. However, the mascot was sent around the corner to buy a new disc and the game continued. There was a scramble in front of the McGill goal which looked dangerous but the defence men cleared and Moran made another pretty stop, and the period ended making it McGill 6, Huntingdon 0.

Third Period
Kent took the puck at the face off and scored a pretty goal in 8 seconds. Skating right down and around the defence, he cut the corner of the net making it McGill 6, Huntingdon 0.

Moran stopped a pretty shot and in a scrimmage in front of the goal, W. Ferry succeeded in scoring the only point for his side, McGill 6, Huntingdon 1. Huntingdon was encouraged by this goal and added a great deal of speed to their play. But McGill was determined to keep the opponents' score down, and a merry battle ensued in which the Red and White had a good deal of the better. McGerrigle skated the entire length of the ice dodging the defence and coming right up to the net, but the jinx was close by and Mac lost an easy goal by slipping.

Frederick then took a pass from Kent and shot a goal from the boards, McGill 7, Huntingdon 1. McNider in for Lynch, McNaughton for Kent, Dempsey for McGerrigle. McNider did some good work in this period, but most of his shots were stopped by Partridge. Huntingdon was unable to get in close and resorted to shooting from outside defence. The puck was being scrimmaged in front of the home team's goal when the final gong sounded. Score: McGill 7, Huntingdon 1.

BILLIARD PLAYERS STAGE TOURNAMENT

Those gentlemen who are proficient in the manly game of billiards will learn with pleasure that the Union House Committee has arranged to have a tournament in the near future. The lists are now open and those wishing to enter should lose no time in turning in their names together with the modest sum of fifty cents as the lists close on the fifteenth.

In former tournaments there have been some clever exhibitions and from the way the billiard rooms have been patronized this fall the tournament should be a great success. Gardner and Martin, two former champions, will draw up the handicaps.

On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock the McGill Senior team will meet the M.A.A.A. Reds at the latter's gym, in one of their City League scheduled games. As this M.A.A.A. line-up has been showing up very well it is expected that a fine game will be played. Tonight at 7 o'clock the College Seniors will practice in the Highlanders' Armory on Bleury St. with the McGill Intermediate.

The line-up was weakened by the loss of "Bones" Little, who is saving his foot for the rapidly approaching schedule games; Monson, who is suffering with a bad cold, played but a half game.

The class manager of Law '24 will appoint two referees for Friday from 6.15 to 7.15.

The class manager of Arts '22 will appoint two referees for Saturday 12.30 to 1.30.

This duty roster will hold good for the week of January 9 to 14 inclusive. The referees will draw whistles from Mr. Joe Foubert at the rink and will return same after game.

The duties of the referees will be as follows:

1. He shall have full charge of game and shall be responsible to the manager that all rules are strictly enforced.

2. He shall appoint two timekeepers and two goal judges.

WRESTLERS START NEW YEAR WELL

Prospects for the Coming Assault-at-Arms Very Good

The wrestlers started the new year well with a fast and strenuous practice on Saturday afternoon. The veterans of the Intercollegiate of last year and a number of new men were out to begin the final grind. Coach Smith is well pleased with the prospects for a McGill victory, for the addition of a year of experience has greatly improved the team which lost by such a narrow margin at the last Assault-at-Arms.

The College Championships are scheduled for the 1st and 2nd of February but it is certain that it will be impossible to run off all events on these nights. A great number of boxing and wrestling bouts will have to be held in practice hours the week preceding the Championships. It is expected that the number of entrants will greatly exceed that of the last tournament, which broke all records in Montreal and probably in Canada.

The Intercollegiate Championships are to be held in Toronto on the 17th and 18th of February. While the wrestlers are quite confident of doing their share to win honors the boxers feel even more confident. The improvement over last year is marked and now it is only a case of polishing off the rough spots and getting into better shape.

Prior to the Toronto trip the wrestling squad are to meet Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y., on the afternoon of Friday, the 10th of February. This is Cornell's Junior Week and the McGill engagement is one of the features of the week. Cornell is one of the best known universities in the United States and has some of the best wrestlers appearing in intercollegiate competition so this should prove a real test for the McGill men. The next night Syracuse University will provide the opposition.

With all this in prospect it is imperative that all men turn out steadily from now on. All men have a chance for not a year passes but some of the best are hurt and the second string men are given an opportunity. Wrestlers all out at five o'clock in the Union.

INDIFFERENCE OF HARVARD SHATTERED

Students of Six Nations Debate on Disarmament

NAVAL HOLIDAY

Vote to Readmit Germany but to Exclude Russia

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 7th.—Interest here in the Washington Conference received an impetus a month ago which is so sustained in its effects that at this late date it is worth discussing.

On November 15th, six Harvard students, nationals of France, England, Japan, China, Italy and the United States, met to discuss the following resolution, before an audience of 350 students: "Resolved: That to prevent the next war it is necessary that there be universal recognition of the Open Door policy; that there be an immediate and complete naval holiday; that there be a progressive reduction of all armaments; that there be free admission of Germany and Russia to the family of nations; and that there be an association of all nations to establish and maintain justice." The meeting was under the auspices of the Harvard Student Liberal Club; Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts presided.

Seated about a conference table similar to the one at Washington, the six aforementioned students seriously considered the problems over which the diplomats in Washington are working. Three hundred and fifty other students listened attentively and tensely to their arguments as each presented the case for his country. By the time the formal speeches were over and the discussion thrown open to the floor, the interest and enthusiasm rivaled that of a football match meeting. Men jumped to their feet calling for the floor; many spoke simultaneously; each clause of the resolution was hotly contested; and after three hours of fierce debate it was the sense of the meeting that there should be universal recognition of the Open Door policy in China, an immediate and complete naval holiday, progressive reduction of all armaments, and an association of nations; it was voted that Germany be invited to join the conference both in Harvard and in Washington, but that Russia remain outside the pale until she had proven her government responsible.

China Strikes Keynote

The conference was particularly fortunate in having an enthusiastic and eloquent Chinese student strike the key note of the meeting in his opening speech. "Young China," he said, "wishes to greet this assembly with a message of heartfelt good will, welcoming it not only with an open door but with an open mind and an open heart. Human nature is the same the world over—the instinct of self preservation is not particular to any particular race or particular nation. From this observation, we learn the principle of give and take, violation of which is the primary cause of all wars. So, to prevent the next war, we Chinese offer you the Open Door policy in China—but with a new meaning confirmed by the Chinese idea of justice. By the Open Door policy we mean that we open our door as an independent sovereign nation comprising all the territories belonging to us and all the nineteen provinces."

British Defend Anglo-Jap Pact

It fell to the lot of the English delegate to defend the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and the "navalistic" policy of Great Britain. The maintenance of the sovereignty and integrity of China was declared to be the explicit object of the first. "For will not the Anglo-Japanese Treaty restrain Japan's perhaps too exaggerated demands and at the same time serve her in good stead both for her financial credit and political aspirations?"

The navalistic policy of England was upheld on the grounds of self defense.

For forty-six weeks in the year, the British people depend entirely on imports for food. Every menace to England, then, necessitates the maintenance of a fleet, a fleet which must be large—enough in order to dominate the seas and rule the world, but to withstand the attacks of small fleets."

French Lieutenant Still Wars on Germans

A soldier blinded in the war, wearing the uniform of a French officer and decorated by the Croix de Guerre and the Victoria Cross, spoke for France. His personal experience was too recent and too tragic for him to discuss Germany in any terms other than those of our "perfidious enemy." M. Envin said: "This constant menace to the peace of France demands the maintenance of an army which can, under no circumstances, be reduced at the present time. Our only hope for peace in the world today is an alliance between England, France and America."

Italian Delegation Conciliatory

Signor Pincherle, the Italian delegate, who left Italy only two months ago, was convinced that European reconstruction could take place only after disarmament and the recognition of the principle of "arbitration by conference." "The survival of the 'war-mind' must be prevented. At the signing of the armistice," he said, "Italy was utterly exhausted but she showed her spirit by giving from her depleted resources to the relief of her foe, Austria."

Liberal Speaks for Japan

Like Mr. Li, Mr. Iwamoto spoke for the youth of his country—from the liberal rather than the imperialistic point of view. He, too, defined the Open Door policy as one giving no country any special privileges in China, agreeing with the president of the University of Tokio that: "it is unfair to ask for any special privilege whatsoever over any other foreign country, for such privilege will tend to stagnate the national morality of my country, as well as to weaken national activity."

"In connection with the Open Door policy in China, every country," said Mr. Iwamoto, "beginning with Japan, should give up her lease when the present term expires. No country should lease part of another country. Some of the Japanese will object that without special privilege in Manchuria, in the face of an evergrowing population with scanty natural resources, the Japanese nation will starve or demoralize. All right, the starvation of seventeen million Japanese is as nothing compared to the establishment of these two fundamental principles in the new international law, because nothing else can do more to safeguard future peace of the world."

United States Speaks for League

Contrary to the example set by the Washington Conference, the delegate from the Washington Conference, the delegate from the United States was the last to speak. In the aims and purposes of the Arms Conference he saw two discernible questions:—"the demand for relief from the increasing burden of expenditures for armaments, and the defense of each country from the destruction following another war." "America's position differs from that of any other country," said Mr. Fanning. "She is not likely to be invaded nor exploited. She is geographically isolated, but anything which interferes with the world trade of the production of things civilization needs is her injury. The United States is in a very anomalous position. She has refused to join the League of Nations, but she called a conference in which she asks other nations to subordinate their interest for the good of the whole."

The German Protest

When the meeting was thrown open to the floor by Chairman Fuller, a boy jumped to his feet to protest as a German student in the University the exclusion of Germany from the Washington Conference. "With the termination of the last conflict," he said, "war was brought to an end. We were all glad. The world stood on tip-toes looking in the future. There was great expectation. Now steps surely must be taken to come to a real understanding, and through real understanding, to peace. Then came the Arms Conference. 'Now,' we thought, 'our expectations are to be realized.' But first Germany must be recalled to the family of nations. You will say she has renounced her rights by her acts. Even if this were true, the Conference would still be a mock family reunion, for you have killed the fatted calf and neglected to invite the prodigal son. I move, then gentlemen, that it be the sense of this meeting that Germany should have been invited to the Conference at Washington and should be represented here tonight."

This motion was immediately seconded by Robert Wormser, president of the Student Liberal Club, who said: "To some it may seem of little importance how we vote on these questions. Two years ago the students of China disagreed with the government policy and walked out of the universities, forcing the government to change. The Debating Union in Cambridge University, England, was considered important enough to be consulted on a point in the Versailles Treaty. The services of students are accepted in times of war without question. Should our services not be just as valuable in helping prevent the next war? One of the steps toward this is to invite Germany to our Conference."

A standing vote was taken; the affirmatives had it, and the German student took his place between the Frenchman and the Englishman on the platform.

A student, who told the Conference he was a Filipino next pleaded for the admission of the dependencies of great powers such as Ireland, India and the Philippines, to the association of nations.

Russians Wrangle Over Representation

Representation for Russia was not so easily disposed of. The first to speak for her was a Russian, who greeted the assembly in the name of the Russian workers. He upheld the Soviet, its ideals of liberty, and the execution of these ideals. "Rules cannot be passed and enforced on fifteen million Russians who have no voice in the making of them," said M. Maximin, "for would this not be taxation without representation? Can such an attitude insure peace or war? Are nations, because the rare 'persons' non grata to the Allies to be excluded? Let this, then, be a Conference, said he, "not of chosen nations, but of all nations; big and small, capitalist and communist, children and step-children."

An aristocratic advocate for Czarist Russia rose to protest against representation for his country by a Bolshevik. He was followed by yet another Russian, who condemned the prevailing party spirit. "It is immaterial," he said, "whether Russia is Soviet or Czarist; we cannot neglect that it is a state, and if the Conference is an assembly of representation of States, Russia has to have representation of the State of Russia and not the parties there."

Eight or nine men clamored for the floor at once. An appeal was made for more honest information on Russia. A Greek student declared that the radical ideas of today are the commonplaces of tomorrow, and that any government which has existed for more than two years deserves representation.

JUNIOR TEAM IS VICTOR IN BASKETBALL

Fast Games Are Staged in City League

EASY VICTORIES

Teams Both Show Development Since Last Game

Last Saturday night the Red and White colors were again carried through to victory—this time by two of the Junior Basketball Teams.

In the first game Junior C. defeated Calvary Church 22-15 in a fairly fast and exciting game. McGill had the edge on their opponents practically throughout the game, showing much better team work and personal ability at all times. Though perhaps the shooting of the McGill representatives was not what it might have been, yet they were able to keep their opponents from getting in a dangerous position. Rapp starred for the Red and White, showing particularly good team work and finding the basket several times on almost impossible shots, while Ferguson was always there to help him out. For Calvary's Jones did most of the work, but owing to the fact that he was not properly supported did not cause so much havoc as he might otherwise have done. The teams:

Junior C—22	Calvary Ch.—15
Forwards
Rapp 8	Taylor 3
Ferguson 6	McDonald 3
Patterson 4	Jones 9
Guards
Scott	Ross
Martin 2	Owen
Subs
Baird	Wilson
Miller
Norton 2
Referee—Blumenstein.

In the second game Junior A. defeated the Victoria Rifles with the score of 44-11. This game was considerably faster than the first, and furnished many more thrills. However, like the other, it was very clean, few penalties being awarded in either case. As before it was superior team work, backed by weight and skill, that won the day. For the Vics Fowler did most of the scoring, due to his not being so well covered as his team mates. Buchanan shot many of the penalty shots, but was too well covered by Snyder to get away in actual play. For the Red and White Silver was responsible for most of the points, always being in the right place on a forward pass. Conner also did some very brilliant work—always just out of his opponent's reach, and a very good shot. Snyder, on the defense, kept the McGill goal out of danger very well, while Walker piled up 6 points on penalty shots.

With more practice both teams ought to make their marks in the City League. Second lineup:

Junior A—44	Vic. Rifles—11
Forwards
Silver 14	Buchanan 5
Conner 10	Fowler 4
Walker 10	Smith 2
Guards
Snyder	Wynne
Altner 2	Burnette
Subs
Levy 8	Donnelly
Yanovitch 2	Carpenter
Referee—Blumenstein.

For though I'm full of joyful hope,
I have a healthy fear of soap.

Which shows that I have drunk too much.

they always did get it.

The vote on this clause of the resolution excluded Russia by six votes.

Conference of the League

The "Irreconcilables" never conducted a hotter war on the League of Nations than was waged by some of the men at the Miniature Arms Conference. And Mr. Wilson himself could not have spoken more convincingly for the League than did some other students. But the opinion was very varied, and it was rather difficult to find common ground. If one wanted a League, why not the League? Then the retort would come back: "Any League but the League." One argument was that no League could be successful because to be so it would have to adopt a system of force disguised under another name. A Canadian student claimed that the United States was committed to enter the League through the utterances of Mr. Harding, who has pledged the United States to a program of world responsibility.

The chairman finally called for the motion. On this part of the resolution, it was the favor of the meeting that America join the League of Nations.

The Harvard meeting was inspired by a suggestion from a pamphlet on the Conference: "The Greatest Event of 1921 Years," which has been published and widely distributed throughout the country by the Intercollegiate Liberal League.
